

Noah C. Eckersley-Ray

Associate

neckersleyray@preti.com

207.791.3069

Noah is an associate with Preti's Litigation Practice Group in the firm's Portland office. He brings practical experience in public-sector and private practice settings, including serving as a judicial intern for the Honorable Indira Talwani of the U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts, and as a summer associate at Preti. Additionally, Noah interned with the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office in the Trial Division, and the Massachusetts Housing and Shelter Alliance, where he researched administrative law and funding regulations relating to housing support initiatives.

Noah's academic and professional background is complemented by a longstanding commitment to athletics and leadership. He has earned numerous academic and athletic honors, including membership in the Chi Alpha Sigma National Collegiate Athlete Honor Society. He earned his J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law and graduated from Carleton College with a B.A. in Classics and Archaeology. He also studied political science at the London School of Economics.

Outside the law, Noah has conducted archaeological research in the Cycladic Islands of Greece and served as a teaching assistant in Carleton's Department of Archaeology.

Admissions

- Maine

Education

- Northeastern University School of Law (J.D.)
- Carleton College (B.A.)
 - Classics and Archaeology

Services

- Litigation